The New York Nationals lost a little ground yesterday, being beaten by the Cincinnatis, while Pittsburg broke even with Boston. The Brooklyns won two games from St. Louis. Results:

From St. Louis to Cincinnati, as represented by their respective ball teams, was such a onounced and sudden change that the New York Nationals may be pardoned if they were not equal to it yesterday, at the Polo Grounds. From Cardinals to Reds overnight was like changing from Lapland overnight was like changing from Lapland to the equator in the same period of time. The New Yorks made one good stand yesterday, then their boit was shot, and they were beaten before another "standing room only" crowd. The attendance has been larger only on three occasions, yesterday's big outputing differing from its predecessors in that it saw the home team lose. The New Yorks always are keyed up to a high pitch in the presence of the multitude. They were keyed up yesterday, but seemed to be shaken by the tension, for there were slip-ups in their speed and breaks in their fieldings.

Both sides were in disputatious mood, and the kicking was tiresome and frequent. It was equally divided between the two teams. McGraw prolonged one growl until he was ordered off the field. Half a dozen red legs surrounded Emslie on one occasion, gesticulating and jawing.

ordered off the field. Half a dozen red legs surrounded Emslie on one occasion, gesticulating and jawing.

Hahn pitched better ball than his "iron man" coworker in the curve vineyard. Although McGinnity struck out nine men, pevertheless he was hit freely, Mike Donlin whaling the leather for two doubles and a line smash into the right field seats. Hain's support was the better, too. Every New York error was costly. Gilbert made two fine stops and one bad fumble: Babel made a wild throw at a critical time; Browne's miss of a ground hit advanced a runner an extra base, and Mertes's wide return of a hit also meant an additional quarter of the journey.

There was one inning, and just one, when New York's batting flared up strongly. This was the fifth, when they made three runs, singles by Browne, Bresnahan, McGann and Mertes and a triple by Babb—all in a row. McGann was caught stealing, which broke the force of the attack, while a wild throw by Seymour let in a run which the hitting would have sent in anyway.

Clean hits by Seymour and Dolan and Backley's out at first gave the Reds a run in the first inning. Daly's single, Corcoran's force, Peitz's single, which was juggled by Browne, and Donlin's double sent a pair of Reds clattering home in the second. Donlin was nipped neatly trying to stretch his hit, but the pair ahead of him were over the plate. Peitz's two-bagger and Babb's wild throw of Seymour's infield hit produced a run in the fifth. Hits by Dolan and Beckley and dilbert's error produced two more in the sixth. Donlin and Seymour batted in the remaining two.

The Brooklyns administered a coat of whitewash to St. Louis in the first game at Washington Park yesterday afternoon. The brilliant playing of Jordan at second for the Brooklyns assisted in doing the trick. In the fifth and sixth innings he figured in double plays, spoiling whatever chance the st. Louis players had to score. In the sixth mining he jumped in the air and caught Rhoades's hard drive, doubling up O'Neil. He also got in two hits and accepted seven chances. Jones, who was in the points for Hanlon's men, pitched a steady game throughout and was backed up by excellent support.

BROOKLYN, 4: ST. LOUIS (N. L.), 3-SECOND GAME.

The Brooklyns were more than anxious to make it two straight, and Manager Hanlon selected Schmidt to do the slab work in the second game. He proved himself to the the man for the occasion and had St. Louis completely at his mercy. Brown, the Southern Leaguer, was in the points for the St. Louis aggregation, and although he pitched good ball he was hit when hits were most needed. There was considerable kicking by both teams and Moran had to warn the offenders several times.

SOUTHAMPTON TENNIS ENDS. H. F. Mahoney and Mrs. Hoadley Win in the Mixed Doubles.

SOUTHAMPTON, L. I., Aug. 15.-Women awn tennis experts gave a brilliant ending to the Meadow Brook Club's annual invitation tournament to-day. They were paired with the experts in the mixed doubles, in the final rounds of which the play was exciting and often prolonged through deuce and vantage games. Mrs. Hoadley and H. F. Mahoney won the final match in this event over Miss Russell and R. P. Huntington, 6-4, 7-5.

Russell and R. P. Huntington, 6-4, 7-5.

Something of a surprise was created in the mixed doubles by the Doherty brothers, with their partners, being defeated in the second round. They failed to take upon themselves the brunt of the fast play at the net, as do the Americans, and this more than anything else appeared to be the cause of their undoing. Miss Hollins and Ollie Campbell played superbly, the woman ably seconding the efforts of her partner at the net and from the base line.

Their victory in the semi-finals was hotly fought, thirty-eight games in two sets, an almost record-breaking number. Only the aggressiveness of the pair saved them from defeat, for their opponents, Miss Kobbe and Edgar S. Leonard, were often within a stroke of capturing the sets.

William A. Larned and the tall Englishman, Reginald F. Doherty, engaged in an exhibition match in the singles. The American was much improved in his form over that he had displayed when he met H. L. Doherty on the previous day. He brought off many of his passing strokes and forced the play all the way through the contest. The final score of the match was 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 in favor of William A. Larned.

Jack O'Brien's Challenge to All Comers

Judging from the London Sporting Life, Judging from the London Sporting Life, Jack O'Brien did not go to England with the ostensible purpose of fighting Jack Palmer, the English middleweight champion. O'Brien made the trip on pleasure bent, but says that he will not throw any chances asside
if a match presents itself. O'Brien's "go" with Palmer is still in abeyance, and the battle will not take place until the first week in

Their first match will be played on Monday at Wheaton, when they will meet the Western Golf Association team. CHICAGO, Aug. 15 .- The Oxford and Cam-years the professional cycling champion, vindicated his possession of the title at Manhattan Beach yesterday by winning two out of three heats in the match race against Iver Lawson, the speedy Swede of Salt Lake City. The match was made for $1,000 a side and a purse of $1,000 offered by the management. Kramer won the second heat by superior jockeying and the third apparently because Lawson quit or weakened. The race seemed to leave it still in doubt which has the faster sprint, for even in the second heat when he lost, Lawson moved faster

In the first heat, at a third of a mile, the jockeying at the start was farcical. On the third attempt at a start Lawson swung his front wheel and stood still until he could tack on behind Kramer. Over in the "Amen corner," where Albert Schock, Tom Eck and other Veterans sat, the remark was made: "That is 40 per cent. the best of it for Lawson at the start." Kramer rode high on the outer edge all the way around. He stayed up there too long. Instead of dropping down to the pole in the turn, where Lawson would have had to go around him in order to pass, he stayed on the outer edge until nearly at the head of the stretch. Then Lawson just slid down the bank and jumped the champion in traditional style. Kramer made a hard fight up the stretch and closed up a little of the gap, but Lawson beat him by nearly two

In the second heat, at a mile, George Collett was put in to make pace for two laps. The men tossed for position and Kramer took the outside place. Lawson ran up on the bank the same style of a jump that Lawson made in the first heat. In the sprint up the stretch Lawson was the faster. He closed up a full length of daylight and crept up so on the champion that at the tape Kramer won by Match Race.

Those readers who are already patrons of the Peters Harness and Saddlery Company need no telling as to the advantages the buyer finds. Everything that a well-regulated harness supply shop should have is to be found here and the quality to price.

Those readers who are already patrons of the spacious showrooms in Newark Quinby & Co. are showing some very attractive carriages in up-to-date styles and as the professional cycling champion, vindicated his possession of the title at Manfound here, and the quality can always be relied upon. It is a short-sighted policy that induces the buying of inferior goods simply to make a saving in cost. A good article is always satisfactory, and it is doubly so when bought at the prices unscrupulous dealers charge for inferior goods. Good goods at fair prices is the rule at Peters's.

> The city of homes has become a stirring porough of business since the consolidation of Greater New York. The I. S. Remson ompany, at 740 to 750 Grand street, announce a line of carriages and light driving vehicles that includes more than four hundred from which to make a selection. All are priced at August figures, and that means a substantial concession from even the moderate prices that always prevail at Remson's. In the harness and horse goods department the stock is equally complete and the same ratio

In more than half a century spent in serving the driving public W. H. Gray has learned to cater successfully to its needs. Just at resent he is showing a number of shop-worn and slightly used vehicles at prices that are nore than tempting. Every carriage of fered is practically as good as the day it left the builder's hands, and a coat of varnish or some trifling expense is all that is needed to put it in perfect order. Every reader who buys a horse or sell a driving outfit knows of Van Tassell & Kearney. It is the best place in the City to buy when you are looking for a reliable bargain. It is also the best place to sell when you want to realize the best market price at short notice. Many years of straight forward business dealing has won the con-fidence of both the selling and the buying public, and anything salable will always find a new owner at a fair exchange. When you

Every line of business has a special following. Some cater to the field of sport and others to the world of toil—the bread winners. The Bedford Wagon Works, located at 754 to 760 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn, build wagons for those who keep the wheels of commerce in motion—business wagons of all kinds, furniture vans for one or two horses and every style of wagon or truck needed to transport a light or a heavy load. To accommodate those who prefer, a small weekly payment is accepted without additional charge.

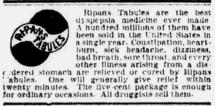

Sold, whether by auction or private sale.

William R. Bishop, at 36 Warren street, has now on exhibition a fine line of station wagons. They are light in weight, new and novel in design and handsomely finished. All have curtains with glass front and doors, making a fashionable and suitable carriage for out-of-town use. The prices, like all prices at right in order to get more room for a stock of fall and winter vehicles he will now is really the useful kind for nine months is very complete and includes the well-known S. E. Bailey vehicles.

The name Quinby has become so associated with high-class carriages that probably few readers stop to ask as to the location. The growth of Newark has necess tated facilities for transportation, and now one can run over to the little metropolis as quickly and con-

Every standard style and many-novelties are included in both four and two-wheel vehicles, for single tandem team or four-in-hand driving. There is a distinctive feature in finish and colorings about a Flandrau vehicle that tells as much to the expert as the nameplate.

R. S. Green, at 148 and 150 East 129th street, is busy now getting ready for the fall and winter season. The getting ready means that he is seiling every day the carriages he has in stock to make room for others. With runabouts at 530, surreys, trape and business wagons of all kinds at equally low prices, it would be strange if there were not something doing. Everything on the floor of the salesroom is marked to move before September, and if any reader contemplates buying anything that rums on wheels it will pay to see what Green has to offer.

The same guarantee applies to every horse sold, whether by auction or private sale.
